POWERS WARN
BOTH SIDESDelegates Working Hard to Arrange
Peace Settlement—Cautioned
Against Renewing War

London, Jan. 13.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and the ambassadors of the powers, are making valiant efforts to bring about a settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies in the direction of peace. They have had additional interviews with Dr. Daneff and Rached Pasha, the heads of the Turkish and Bulgarian delegations, respectively, advising moderation on both sides and warning them that either party, if through obstinacy it should plunge Europe into war again, would incur a heavy weight of disapproval.

The meeting of the ambassadors today was the longest yet held. They discussed the note to be presented to the Porte, passage by passage, aiming to meet every argument likely to be raised by the Turk. The general impression among the plenipotentiaries is that the definite decision on peace or war must come from Constantinople. Whatever concessions and compromises the Balkan league may make the allies will never consent to the renunciation of Adrianople, which the Turks make the sine qua non of peace.

Much is hoped for here from Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, a man of great ability and extraordinary influence. He is perhaps the most powerful among the Ottoman statesmen. He has succeeded in restoring the good relations between Turkey and the triple entente, and thus far has been able to prevent the powers from taking an active Turkish attitude.

While progress toward peace is at a standstill here, the Balkan delegates are endeavoring to obtain advantages for themselves in the partition of the conquered territory. Greece and Montenegro are working actively among their relatives and friends on the other thrones of Europe, to influence the powers in favor of the claims of their country. As the moment for a decision approaches their efforts become more strenuous. It is known that they have sent special envoys to some of the capitals to support the work of their regular diplomats.

The Greeks, unhindered by the armistice which binds the other allies, are continuing the fighting in Epirus, where even today sharp encounters took place with the Turks. According to several dispatches to Premier Venizelos, the Greek forces are doing their utmost to surround Janina.

Their efforts are now being directed to the north, where the Turks thus far have kept communications open and have thus been able to secure supplies. It has been difficult therefore to take the city by starving it out.

Scutari is even more invulnerable to hunger because it is one of the greatest grain depots in the Balkans and must have six months provisions on hand.

Don't miss a big attraction. The Spring Maid at Portsmouth Theatre this evening.

THE JANUARY TERM.

Unusually Large Number of Civil Actions to Be Heard.

Clerk of Superior Court Charles H. Knight has received the dockets for the January term which convenes at Exeter on January 21. There appears to be the usual number of cases among its covers, the civil actions numbering 619, the equity cases to 265, the state cases being fifty, and also about twenty appeal cases.

The court will come in on Jan. 21, and the jury will report Jan. 22. There is no grand jury this term and all of the jurymen are for the petit panel. It is, however, likely that Judge Robert G. Pike of Dover, who will sit, will sentence several who were proved or pleaded guilty at the last term of court at Portsmouth. It is also probable that there may be a contribution to the hearings of those involved in the Water street cleanup in Portsmouth, which was begun at the end of the last term.

PUBLIC WORKS

Taking Account of What Is Collected by Wagons.

The Board of Public Works today started to take account of the work done in the street division by the collectors. Each cart is accompanied by a checker who takes account of what is collected. This is to determine the relative amount of ashes, paper, etc., with a view of doing the collecting for less money and to check the collection of soil and other waste. Last year the city of Haverhill did the work for $2,400 under contract, while Portsmouth paid for the same $4,000. The plan may tend to contract collecting in this city.

BOYS ARRESTED.

For the Stoning of Locomotive on Friday Last.

Defective Bradley of the Boston & Maine railroad came here today to investigate the case of boys throwing rocks at the locomotive of the Boston and Wellsboro express on Friday night last at Harberr Lane. Officer Shannon was put on the case and later brought in three young boys who admitted that they were guilty but claimed that it was snowballs that they threw at the passing train. The engineer says it was a rock, but the boys stick to the snowball story.

COMMITTEES
APPOINTEDEvery Indication Points That There
Will Be No Chance on the First Ballot for Senator

Concord, Jan. 13.—The usual crowd that has been wont to assemble here the night before a senatorial contest in the legislature did not put in an appearance here tonight. There were scarcely more people present than usual the night when the announcement of the standing legislative committees is expected, as was the case last night. President Sawyer of the senate gave out his assignments of the upper branch, but Speaker Britton stated that his task was still uncompleted, but as there was only about two hours more work to be done upon them he was confident they would be made public at tomorrow's session. If the announcement had been made tonight, it would have been a full week later than has been the case at previous sessions.

All the avowed candidates for United States senator were about the hotel this evening, but their headquarters were on the ground floor of the hotel, where they mingled with the few people present in the most friendly manner.

There were some conferences in which prominent democrats participated, and some of the progressive leaders were at hand. The latter stated with the utmost positiveness that their men had no disposition to support Mr. Hollis's candidacy and that, under no circumstances whatever would they do so. At the same time, there was the positive statement from influential democrats that Mr. Hollis, notwithstanding his securing a caucus nomination, would never be given the full strength of the party membership in the legislature. One thing seems to be fully agreed upon in all forecasts, and that is that there will be no choice on the first ballot for senator in the joint convention, which comes at noon on Wednesday.

The detailed doings of the ninth legislative day:

In the House—Afternoon.

The speaker tapped the house to order at 8:40 o'clock. There were about forty members in their seats. On motion of Fowler of Lacombe bill No. 7, relating to the Lacombe district of Lacombe, was referred to the Lacombe delegation.

On motion of Hobbs of Castine the house adjourned at 8:41 o'clock.

In the Senate—Evening.

Senator Blackwood called the senate to order at 7:30 o'clock by request of the president.

The following committee appointments were read:

Judiciary—Prentiss, Blackwood, Seamon, Gaffney, Edes.

Incorporations—Clough, Bell, Seamon, Telford, Rogers.

Labor—Blackwood, Rogers, Gaffney, Edes, Gates, Chesley.

Roads, bridges and canals—Farnsworth, Prentiss, Wallace, Clough, Gerry.

Cities—Joyal, Parsons, Seamon, Gaffney, Farnsworth.

Railroads—Bell, Gates, Emerson (district No. 14), Wallace, Prentiss.

Banks—Huntress, Hutchins, Emerson (district No. 3), Clough, Rogers.

Special to the Herald
Augusta, Me., Jan. 14.—In the Maine legislature today a motion was made to unseat Hon. Horace Mitchell of Kittery, Me., and three others, on the ground that they could not hold two offices at the same time. The action is taken in connection with the senatorial contest.

WILL CHANGE THE SERVICE

Plan Will Abolish All the Customs Naval Officers and Surveyors

Washington, Jan. 13.—The treasury department's tentative plan for the reorganization of the customs service, the abolition of all customs naval officers and surveyors of customs, confining the port administration to collectors and deputy collectors.

It also is the department's intention to deprive the collectors at ports along the Great Lakes and the Canadian border of their present perquisites from the sale of manifest blanks and to turn this revenue into the treasury. At some of the smaller ports where the salary of the collector is only $2500, fees from the sale of manifests are believed by officials to make their compensation to a large amount, even $15,000 or $20,000 in some instances. At New York and at all other actual seaports, the collectors years ago, lost the returns from the sale of manifests.

When former President Chester A. Arthur was collector at New York he, like others, was paid on a commission and fee basis and his compensation is said to have reached over $100,000 a year. This situation drew the attention of congress and all seaports were placed on a strictly salary basis. The principle, however, has never extended to some lake and Canadian border ports.

The abolition of the naval officers will mark the passing of the most historic character in the service of Uncle Sam. He is a relic of the Colonial days. The seven ports have naval officers: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco. The salary at New York is $8000 and at the others $5000.

In reducing the 165 existing customs districts to less than fifty, the treasury department's plan provides for placing each district in charge of a deputy collector. No existing ports will be abolished and many harbors will be made ports.

A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS AT NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

One of the best known speakers of the Lyceum Bureau, Thomas B. Fletcher, appeared in the lecture course, last Saturday evening, his subject being "The Martyrdom of Paul." With his keen analysis, proven method of presentation and sincere eloquence, Mr. Fletcher held an unusually large audience to close attention for nearly two hours.

On Saturday a number of the college organizations had their pictures taken at Exeter for the 1913 Grande, which will appear this spring. About 150 students, that is nearly one half of the college, left on the noon train and returned in the afternoon.

At the meeting of the Granite State Farmers' Association and of the state board of agriculture, which will be held at Concord on January 16, President E. T. Fairchild, Director E. J. Kendall, Prof. F. W. Taylor, and Prof. S. W. Hamblen are on the list of speakers.

Prof. Charles James of the department of chemistry, spoke on Saturday evening in Schenectady before the Chemical Association of the Granite State. He delivered a subject in which he is one of the best known scholars in the world, namely "Rare Earths."

The success of the song book which the Girls' Council is planning to publish has excited the interest of student body and alumni alike. An evidence of this is the river poster now hanging in a frame on the bulletin board and advertising the informal which is to be given on Saturday evening of this week for the benefit of the song book. Several new songs have been written for the publication, and further contributions are requested and expected.

An important regular meeting of the board of trustees was held last Wednesday, January 8 in the President's office, at the conclusion of routine business the board then adjourned to meet the following day in Concord. At Concord the legislative budget was discussed with Gov. Folger who is a member of the board, and the following special appropriations besides the regular running expenses were approved: engineering building, $80,000; running expenses, including forestry, $37,000; tuition of New Hampshire Students, $6,000; agricultural extension work, $12,500; special expenses, $20,000.

The program for the 40th annual one week course in agriculture, to be held January 27 to January 31, has just appeared. A more live program would be hard to conceive. In a full run to the regular courses given in previous years, the special features this coming season will be: The rural progress section.

at Progress Section; Women's Section distinguished by valuable lessons in domestic science and home economics, including of potato growers and poultry men, and family lectures illustrated by stereopticon views. The course is a most interesting one to those seeking the best practical methods for efficient economy in agriculture and the prosperity of home life.

The basketball team will make its first trip this coming week, meeting Dean Academy at Franklin, Mass. On Tuesday evening eight men headed the manager and coach, will be taken on the trip. Following the Dean Academy game the team will play the Springfield Training School in Springfield, and Rhode Island State College at Kingston, R. I.

The swimmers for New Hampshire men in football and track were awarded on Wednesday last, after the chapel exercises. Thirteen players and the manager, received the football sweaters, and the following were given track trophies: Carl Beach, Ham, Jones, Ford, H. W. Sanborn, E. J. Sanborn and T. Davis. This was the first time that swimmers have been awarded to the track letter men.

Prof. F. W. Taylor addressed last week the Farmers' Institutes, which were held in the different counties of the state by the state board, at Freedom, Belmont, and Warner. His topics of address were "Soil Fertility" and "Farm Crops." Prof. Taylor also spoke before the Durham Women's Club Friday, on "Old Things and New Things in Agriculture."

ANNUAL MOTOR BOAT SHOW

Although three weeks of active preparations are well under way for the best motor boat and engine show that Boston has ever seen, never before have so many interesting features been obtained by Manager Chester I. Campbell, and added in this the great interest taken in the Eastern field by the prominent boat builders has led them to make special preparations for this coming show. Big boats and little boats, hydroplanes, speed engines large enough for a whole family to live on, down to the merry little chug chugs for river and lake at a price within the reach of all will be shown together with a line of accessories, comfort and safety devices, and practically every known make of engine.

Among the attractions will be the wonder of the world, champion hydroplane baby, Reliance II, holder of all the world's records, and the beautiful display of trophies it has won

A RIVER AND A CITY

How the Missouri Ruined Rockport and Revived It.

Many stories have been told of the eccentricities of the Missouri river, and how that fitful stream has made and unmade towns of its peculiar "bending" its channel.

A dispatch from Omaha tells an interesting story of the rise and fall of Rockport, once a promising town. Rockport according to the story was in existence before Fort Donelson was built; before Chicago was thought of before Kansas City, Council Bluffs, and Leavenworth, were put on maps. Omaha which only existed at Omaha stopped at Rockport for supplies. Military expeditions made headquarters there. Industries sprang up, and Rockport apparently had the heart of a city. About seventy-five years ago, however, the Missouri river decided to make of a metropolis, move. It did not exactly pick up its bed and walk, but it switched its channel and took a short cut across the country, leaving Rockport high and dry. The water, the stores, the mills and small industries left behind gradually and the citizens moved to other localities. Many of the residences were taken into farms in the surrounding country and eventually Rockport was entirely deserted.

Now the Omaha dispatch relates the river has shifted again but the change was made gradually and not a single night, as was the case three quarters of a century ago. For some years past the Missouri has been cutting its way slowly back to the desertion wharves at Rockport. It has swayed over cornfields and farms and has resisted all efforts to stop it, and the farmers constructed dikes. The river is now within one hundred and fifty yards of the desolate docks, and it is believed that in a few weeks steamboats will be landing once more at Rockport. Rehabilitation of the town already has begun and in the language of the enthusiastic correspondent "by Christmas time the wharf will again be on the river bank and Rockport will be resurrected by the same force which killed it seventy-five years ago."

It would be remarkable, indeed, if Rockport should come back after an absence of many years from the map. Should it take on new life it will do well to make arrangements to get a railroad and thereby assure itself as a continuing city. The Missouri river

PIRATES CONFIDENT OF BEING IN LEAD

Pittsburgh, Jan. 13.—"Barney" Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, is not convinced that Roger Bresnahan has determined to catch for Chicago.

"The reason I don't believe the story," said Dreyfuss, "is that we have not heard from Bresnahan. If he had decided to become a Cub I'm sure he would have extended us the formality of a refusal of our offer. However, we're not worrying over Roger. We'll try to get along without him."

For perhaps the first time in his 15 years in baseball Dreyfuss yesterday made a "love league" prediction concerning the next World's Series. When asked why he had broken away from precedent and arranged games with the Red Sox on the spring training trip, Dreyfuss said:

"O, we just wanted to show them what we'll do to them in the World's Series next fall."

After he had let it out Barney admitted he expected to see the Sox and Pirates dividing the post-season money. Fred Clarke has ordered all his battery men to report at West Baden Ind., on March 2. Clarke is not going to risk a repetition of last season's experience. Starting in with a team that on form was a pennant winner, Clarke went through a long period during which his twirlers showed little form.

After the Giants had the flag nailed to the Pirate boxmen rounded into form. Clarke, having his pitchers well started earlier in the summer of 1912.

Deep-Sea Hospitality.

Mrs. Blane was giving a tea party on her yacht. The affair for some reason was dragging dreadfully. The guests asked of nothing but the weather, and even in this talk there would come long, deadly silences. Suddenly Mrs. Blane, losing her balance, fell heavily against her mother-in-law, who sat beside the low rail, and with a moaning cry the dear old lady went headforemost overboard. Of course she was rescued, but afterward Mrs. Blane told Mrs. Blane privately to think, "How clumsy you are," he said, "to knock mother into the water like that. I'm afraid she won't care to visit us again in a hurry. You really should be more careful." "Now, George," said Mrs. Blane, "be reasonable. I had to do something. I simply had to. Didn't you see how our party was dragging?" —Argonaut.

MANY HEAR THE RESULTS OF SURVEY

Dr. Aronvinchi Addresses Civic Association and John Langdon Club.

Dr. Carol Aronvinchi, head of the Municipal Research League, who but recently completed a survey of this city, made two very interesting addresses here on Monday afternoon and evening, in which he stated plainly the condition he found the city in.

His first address was before the Civic Association on Monday afternoon at Association hall and as it was an open meeting there was a large audience of representative women to hear him. He spoke on the social development and social protection for women. He took the condition of this city as he and his agents found it and dwelt upon it under the following heads: Morals, Amusements, Mortality, Sanitation, and housing. Schools Street Cleaning and the Remedy. The moral conditions he brought out the facts that have already been the topic for some time. Under sanitation and housing he stated that in some of the sections the conditions were very bad but no worse than is generally found in a city of this size, but all conditions that could readily be cared for. In regards to schools he claimed that this city was better off than any city he has visited, but the health of the children was not as good as it should be. He attributed this to lack of proper medical inspection of the schools and warmly advocated a medical inspector instead of the volunteer inspection that is being carried on now. He recommended that a women police matron be appointed with duties on the streets for the protection of women and girls.

His second address was at the John Langdon Club at the North Church Chapel on Middle street and there was a large audience present, with many outside of the club. His topic here was Portsmouth as it is and how it should be. He dwelt on practically the same subjects as in the afternoon talk and offered some excellent ideas especially about the street cleaning and beautifying of the city. He claimed that one of the worst sights about this city was the chain of dumps which encircle it which were neither picturesque or healthy. He claimed a survey of the police records for the last five years showed an astonishing high per cent of the arrests were due to vice, viz-drunkness, gambling and street walking. It was according to his figures 75 per cent of thirty per cent higher than that of Providence which showed but forty-six per cent.

He dwelt on many other matters that were very interesting.

Dr. Thayer followed with a detailed explanation of the work of the committee of four citizens, what they had started to do, what had been accomplished and what they hoped to do in the future, and ended with a strong plea for a better city from all stand points.

THE NASHUA GANG WILL STAND TRIAL

Nashua, N. H., Jan. 13.—A number of the men indicted on the charge of gambling in connection with the Gregg investigation in this city went to Manchester today with their counsel, intending to plead before the Superior Court and have their cases disposed of.

These men had not been arrested, and some of them had not even been summoned to appear. They only knew of the indictments through the printed lists. All the men and women indicted for other offenses in the investigation have been arrested and either given bail or been paroled in the custody of counsel. They all say they intend to stand trial.

The men's class of the First Congregational church last evening adopted a resolution praising Police Commissioner Gregg for his zeal in self-sacrifice in the interest of a clean city.

PROGRESSIVES ARE TO HOLD APART

New York.—ignoring altogether the Munsey plan of combining the Republican and Progressive parties, the executive committee of the National Progressive party, concluding in session here Saturday, adopted a definite program of political organization according to which the Progressives intend to put a candidate in the field in 1914 in every county and Congress district in the United States.

The general plan of organization in the United States does not call for fusion in local districts. The executive committee accordingly established permanent committees on legislative reference, education and publicity.

Elton H. Hooker, chairman, appointed as members of the finance committee George C. Pricilly of Oklahoma, Charles S. Bird of Massachusetts, August Heckscher of New York, Charles Henry Davis of Massachusetts, J. D. W. English of Pennsylvania, George F. Porter of Illinois and Arthur L. Gerford of Ohio.

Various Progressive conferences are to be held within the next few months in different parts of the country. A conference of five states is to be held at St. Paul on Jan. 24, at which the organizers of the party in Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, North Dakota, and South Dakota will report, and plans will be discussed for extending the work. A conference will be held in Kansas, where the Progressives will be formally organized as a party.

HARD WORK PRINTING STAMPS

Washington, Jan. 13.—The last of the 350,000,000 special stamps which were required for the inauguration of the parcel post system in the United States and the insular possessions have just been finished by the bureau of engraving and printing and sent to the few postoffices remaining unstocked. The second order for 180,000,000 is to be run through the presses in record breaking time, and the bureau will then be ready for the real business of the year.

Joseph E. Ralph, the director of the bureau, feels well satisfied with the work that he has done in supplying these stamps. The big issue of stamps in the two short weeks allowed for the work was a task to try the efficiency of any director of a printing bureau, but at the proper time the 60,000,000 bundles of stamps one for each of the postoffices in the country were shipped by registered mail to their destinations. Although still in its early stages, the parcel post system is being received enthusiastically by every one except the postoffice clerks, according to the reports received by Postmaster-General Hitchcock.

SPRING MAID AT PORTSMOUTH THEATRE THIS EVENING

The evolution of musical plays which in two decades has ranged from the charming Gilbert and Sullivan operas through a desert of Italian melodies and slap-stick methods of fun, has finally come back to a worthy success in the popular operetta, "The Spring Maid," Weiss and Luescher's notable production, which will be seen at the Portsmouth Theatre this evening.

This latest of Viennese operettas, with the tuneful melodies that have spread over the country to precede its coming visit, has been praised by critics as well as the theatre-going public. Its charm and melodious quality have been welcomed eagerly as a work long awaited.

Of this opera the New York Evening World said: "Instead of taking the water cure for your ills, take the flowing melodies of 'The Spring Maid,' for in Reinhardt's score, brought from Germany without the loss of a single drop of its sweetness, you will find happiness that is akin to health and a spirit of youthfulness that would make your giddy old grandfather dance for joy. After 'Day Dreams,' with its heart throb and its delightfulness, 'The Merry Widow' waits resolves itself into a funeral march. The firm of Weiss & Luescher is considered to have established its reputation for big productions by their presentation of this new opera. They have brought to America the most fascinating of Viennese successes, staged it elaborately, and provided it with everything that goes to make a success of a production of this order."

Now in their second season as favorites in the roles of the saucy princess and the dashing prince, Miss Gene Laneska and J. H. Goldworthy will sing the two principal parts. They will be ably assisted by an excellent east of New York musical comedy favorites, many of whom are known to theatre-goers here. The company of sixty singers and dancers will also include the famous "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet. There will also be an enlarged orchestra carried specially by the company to properly interpret the delightful score of the operetta.

Party Coalitions and Alignments.

President Taft, at the banquet given recently in his honor by the republican "Old Guard," defined the terms on which progressives would be welcomed back to the party and forgiven. The comments of progressives have not indicated that acceptance of the terms is likely, though for tactical reasons there may be, as in Maine and California at the present time, temporary coalition to gain immediate and special ends. In New Hampshire local strategists have brought about a progressive-democratic coalition. Such varying courses are not surprising when the nature of politics is considered. Mr. Roosevelt may decree a policy of proud party isolation; but we believe it can hardly work out, so long as conditions are in the present fluid state.

No man seems sufficient unto the task of predicting what condition the democratic party may be in six months hence. The factional lines of cleavage seem bound to widen and deepen rather than to close and narrow under the leadership of a president voicing such sentiments as Mr. Wilson uttered at Staunton, Va., and having such a theory of executive leadership of both party and nation as he holds. Signs multiply that he is to have the backing in the senate of La Follette of Wisconsin, and possibly other of the progressive republicans. His recently announced views seem far more in consonance with theirs than they are with the opinion known to be held by New York democrats who represent Wall street and Tammany and by southern senators of the school of Martin of Virginia and Simmons of North Carolina.

In view of all this, while it is quite open for Mr. Munsey and other men of fertile imagination and mediating temper to continue to project elaborate schemes for alignment of voters and reconciliation of now separated former friends, an observer must decline to feel that they are premature in their efforts. The democratic party has yet to pass through the same process that the republican party has recently undergone. Until that process has been completed and until the policy of the faction that wins is known, it is hardly worth while speaking dogmatically about the politics of 1916 expressed in terms either of platform or of candidates. Meanwhile, of course, constructive statesmen will legislate with national and not partisan interests in view, and political philosophers will note the fascinating process of political and social evolution under twentieth century conditions.—Christian Science Monitor.

Simple State Functions.

A Washington dispatch says the president-elect would like to walk to the capitol inauguration day, if it were not that the crowds of curiosity seekers would prevent it.

And Governor Sulzer, of the greatest state of the Union, wearing his old gray suit, with a plain derby hat, walked to the capitol to take the oath of office.

Many people will call Governor Sulzer's induction into office tame and uninteresting, and will feel that the greater the post the more impressive should be the dignity that surrounds it. As far as wearing your old clothes on such an occasion goes, one would advise the new president-elect not to follow the New York man's example. The choice of clothes subtly registers the importance you place on any occasion.

If you invite your friends to your home for a party, and don your working togs for that affair, they would logically assume that you did not care whether you pleased them or not. Governor Sulzer did not mean to convey that idea, but his old clothes gave the impression that he regarded the assumption of one of the highest offices in the United States as of no more importance than an excursion for the purpose of jollying the voters at a cattle show.

But as respects frills, fuss and feathers, there is much to be said in favor of simplicity. Let the public servant convince the public of his greatness by the unselfish devotion with which he fights for efficient government and for the welfare of the people.

Prancing horses and marching hosts are a poor substitute for economy in using government money, and systematic efforts to better the condition of the common man.

Then, too, gilt lace and martial display cost money that someone has to pay. And that someone is not the president nor the governor. The moment you begin to throw money away for some purpose not directly necessary for efficient government, that moment you help spread the impression that the public treasury is on tap for all comers.—Mirror.

The New York Tribune remarks that if the government can secure convictions, withholding foodstuffs and other commodities from the markets is going to be a perilous undertaking. That is the effect of a Supreme court decision holding that such a course as that taken by James A. Patten, the Chicago speculator, and his associates conducted a few years ago may be a conspiracy in restraint of trade. And why should the government have any difficulty in finding juries ready to regard this as a criminal offense?

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Birth Rate by Commission.

Alarm in France over the low birth rate is no new thing. It is chronic with the politicians, and now a commission has been appointed to investigate causes and suggest remedies. This commission may present an interesting exposition of conditions and causes, but what can it or any similar body offer as remedies? Jacques Herdillon, an eminent statistician, would have the people taught that the child is a burden which the father supports for the entire community, would regard three children as the payment of a debt by the family to the state, would grant the contributing parents a remission of taxes, and it appears that this plan for a remission of taxes has been adopted by other countries. But that the lives of millions of people can be modified by any such scheme is more than doubtful.

The state's interest in the birth problem is primarily an interest in the strength to be derived from numbers and may be described largely to the traditional ideas concerning war and nationalism. If you are putting up people to be killed sixty millions will go further than forty. But no man or woman will be influenced in the family relations by the thought of bringing children into the world to be used as targets for Krupp guns.

The individual is affected just as little by loud lamentations over race suicide. That may mean race suicide in the largest sense covering the human race, while in this country if the term be used in the restricted sense it must signify national suicide, since we have all the races. It brings us back to the slaughter again. Have many children so that they may be killed. This is the plan that emphasizes the criminal folly of war, but it will never produce large families, nor will any other thought that emanates from a political authority. The problem is a personal one, to be decided, so far as the will of the person may decide, by considerations of various kinds over which the family court has full jurisdiction.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Coal Shortage.

It is uncomfortable news that Washington is face to face with a coal famine, though it is a situation of which coal buyers and coal sellers have been cognizant for some time. It would indeed, be unusual for a winter to pass without there being raised the question of a coal shortage. It is an annual story. Each season flounders and ready reasons for a coal shortage are given, and usually there is a remarkable similarity between the reasons. The trouble always seems to be with the mines and the railroads. In The Star last evening the reasons given were "inability to secure cars from the mines and the shortage resulting from last spring's shut-down in the anthracite mining region," and the cheering information is given out on the authority of numerous coal dealers that "should a prolonged season of bad weather with severe cold set in conditions are such that great suffering surely would occur in Washington from lack of fuel."

With a coal shortage, January here, February and March approaching, and the weather bureau predicting cold waves, the situation demands a good display of philosophy to contemplate with equanimity. With the conditions as stated by the local coal dealers, householders should practice careful economy in the use of fuel and draw coal from the dealers at every opportunity. To wait until the coal bin is empty before ordering may subject many citizens to annoyance and discomfort.—Washington Star.

Four Great Sauces.

A Frenchman has declared that "man has created the culinary art; he does not eat like an animal—he breathes, thinks and cooks."

The French are particularly eloquent in the subject of sauces. Among their famous chefs are recognized four great sauces: Spanish, Veloute, Bechamel and German. The Spanish and Veloute were known as far back as the seventeenth century. In the eighteenth they were modified by the masters of cookery, particularly by Carême, who was called "The Raphael of the kitchen."

The Spanish sauce is composed of butter extracted from a mixture of ham, veal, chicken and pheasant. Veloute is similar, but is not colored. Bechamel is Veloute to which cream has been added, and the German sauce is Veloute plus the yokes of eggs.—Harper's Weekly.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

There has been considerable talk in the papers recently about the apparatus of the fire department, the ladder truck especially, which is no joke. I would say that a new ladder truck has been recommended for the past ten years, and probably will be for ten years to come. Ladder trucks and ladders do not put out fires but are handy things to have around when needed. One or more of the steamers should have the ladder attention so that they can push the water when foam is wanted to the streams, that's what puts out the fire.

A new central station has been recommended for the past thirty years. The present station has been "too much already to back up with the advance of the department, and is now a disgrace to the city. It should be housed and kept. It should be replaced by a modern station. OBSERVER.

Governor Sulzer and "General" Rosalie Jones, Suffrage Leader.

In the light of an after event, which followed closely on its heels the spectacular "filch" of the suffragette army to Albany recently really achieved results. This is what has happened—the judiciary committee of both houses of the state legislature has reported the Wagner-Goldberg bill for equal suffrage. The action does not mean that women will be able to cast their ballots at next election, but it means the suffrage question will be put through the legislature and then submitted to a referendum vote of the people in 1914. It is generally understood that the judiciary committee, which has been pestered and besieged for years by suffrage orators, took its final step to shift the responsibility on the whole people of the state. "General" Rosalie Jones, the intrepid young woman who led the feminine marchers to Albany and who is shown in the picture standing with Governor Sulzer, can now assert that the march won the result that was desired.

CANNON ASSAILS NEWSPAPER ACTION

Calls Press Gallery in the House "That Great Menagerie" During Speech.

Washington, Jan. 13. Ex-Speaker "Uncle Joe" Cannon was roused to action in the House today by the amendment of G. N. Hagen, progressive republican of Iowa, to cut by 10 per cent. the pay of the railroads for carrying mail. It would mean a reduction of about $5,000,000 a year.

Incidentally, Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general, was assailed by "Uncle Joe." "The fact that the postmaster general had recommended the reduction was, with him, no argument in its favor."

"This is a very important amendment," said the former speaker, when he rose to speak to Hagen's amendment.

"It may be that the railways in this country receive too much pay now, but the fact that the gentleman states that the postmaster general recommends the reduction in no argument to me in favor of a reduction. The postmaster general asserts that we lose $60,000,000 on carrying second-class matter. I do not know whether we do or not."

"It may be that after a full consideration," said he, with a gesture toward the press gallery, "that great menagerie (as compared with the 10 per cent. reduction to the railways) should be taken into account. For one, I am not ready to take it into account, except as it may be intelligently and fully discussed."

Needs Consideration.

"It may be that the railway mail pay ought to be reduced, but in almost the closing days of this session, for an amendment to be offered here on a hop, skip and jump, to make a reduction of 10 per cent. in the railway mail pay does not address itself to my discretion as legislation."

"I do not now and never did own a share of stock in any railway corporation, nor did I ever represent one as an attorney, directly or indirectly, in any way or form. It is important to all the people, nearly a hundred million of them, that these great arteries for the transportation of our enormous products should be fairly dealt with. Not only is it important to the railways themselves, but it is more important to all the people than it is to the railways."

"My service in this House will soon close, and while I should not regret to see the reduction of railway mail pay, if it ought to be reduced, my judgment is that it ought not to be done until after full investigation, full consideration, and after the intelligent judgment of the majority of the House believes that it should be done and how far it should be decreased."

Later when Cannon was asked about his address, he said:

"Railroads are killing and maiming persons every day, and we are complaining that the managers do not keep their roads in repair. How are they going to keep the roads in good condition if they do not make money enough to do so?"

The former speaker has been in public life since he was state attorney in Illinois in 1861. On March 3 he will step back into private life.

Farewell to "Uncle Joe." A complimentary dinner to "Uncle Joe" Cannon at the completion of his long term of service in the House is to be given by democrats and republicans of that body.

May Fix Size of Loaves. The validity of a Chicago ordinance fixing the size of loaves of bread was today upheld by the Supreme court.

Naval Academy Visitors. President Taft today named the following board of visitors to the United States naval academy, to serve for the present year: Herbert L. Satterlee, of New York; Max Peim, Chicago; George G. Lill, Washington; David S. Barry, Washington; S. A. Perkins, Tacoma, Wash.; Fred W. Davis, New Haven, Conn.; Nelson Lamport, Chicago.

Meyer Urges Three Battleships. Renewal of the fight in the House for an increase in the number of battleships has started a campaign by the two-battleship program advocates looking to a compromise on a single battleship. In the meanwhile the navy is pressing for provision for three big fighting ships. Secretary Meyer urged this program today.

Hospital Ship for Fishermen. A bill for a federal hospital ship for the Gloucester fishing fleet was considered today by the House merchant marine committee. Introduced by Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts, it would appropriate $100,000 for a ship to accompany the Gloucester fishermen on their cruises. There are 600 ships with 8000 men in the fleet.

To End Commerce Court. If the recommendation of the Senate committee on appropriations is accepted by the Senate, as it probably will be, the Commerce court will be discontinued after the close of the present fiscal year, June 30 next.

DRYDEN DEFEATED FRITZ HANSEN IN HARD MATCH

Won First Fall After An Hour's Work--Lost Second But Won Final -- Accepts Challenge of Young Olson.

Bill Dryden the local wrestler won a reputation that will last at Freeman's hall on Monday evening when in the most grilling match of the season he defeated Fritz Hansen the welter weight champion of the world before a crowd of nearly two thousand people.

It was a great match for Dryden to win for he was up against the best man he has ever met since he has improved his wrestling. Hansen defeated Dryden four years ago in a private match in this city for a side bet, but at that time Dryden was a near novice and while as strong as a young bull he had no science. Last night he proved that he had succeeded in getting science and without the loss of any of his strength and this combined with some twenty pounds in weight, for Dryden is a middle weight, was more than the superior science and experience of Hansen could combat, and he went down to defeat, but only after a hard struggle.

The first fall was secured by Dryden after they had been wrestling an hour and four minutes in which Hansen several times had Dryden in a position which looked good for a fall only to have him tear out of the holds. Likewise Hansen showed an ability to get away from hard holds. Finally Dryden planned Hansen to the mat with a body scissor and a bar and chancery hold, which he sought vainly to escape from.

The second fall came after eight minutes or more of less slow work, each being wary of taking many chances, but Hansen finally slipped over a head scissor that there was no escaping from in just eight minutes and five seconds.

After ten minutes rest they came on the mat for the final bout and Hansen adopted a working tactic, but he failed to get the desired rise out of Dryden, who is remarkably clean and does not adopt any of the sharp tricks, that while permissible are not the less obnoxious. Hansen repeatedly used the face holds with the single idea of wearing Dryden down but he broke away and while several times he was in hard places he pulled out, once out of a head scissor which looked fatal. They were going very fast when Dryden with a hip lock gave Hansen a hard toss and in falling he landed on the mat and it knocked the wind out of him. He was brought back on the mat and while the referee stalling them off for a second Dryden was not to be denied and once he reached him he soon had him pinned to the mat with an arm bar and a head chancery.

Joe Killough of Laconia was the referee and he is as clever at this game as in base ball or basket ball.

At the conclusion of the match Dryden accepted the challenge of Young Olson of Boston, who holds the middle weight championship of the world. Next Monday evening is the first time the hall can be secured and the match will be held on that date. Young Olson was present and before the match announced that he was prepared to meet either Dryden or Hansen for a side bet from one dollar to five hundred.

Fritz Hansen wanted another chance at Dryden and he announced that he would take him on a later date after he had wrestled Olson. The crowd last evening demonstrated that good clean sport of this kind will get rattling good support and the fans are well pleased with the game so far.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening at both local churches. Constitution lodge No. 88, Knights of Pythias meet this evening at Odd Fellows hall. A meeting of the Constitution Aid Society follows other business.

A supper such as only the ladies of the Second Methodist society know how to prepare and serve will be given tomorrow evening from 5.30 to 7 o'clock, with an excellent entertainment following. Everyone should make an effort to attend.

A drinking fountain has been donated to the town by a farmer resident, Charles R. Hanson of New London, Conn., to be placed within the triangle at the navy yard station. This triangle has been enclosed with granite by the efforts of the Village Improvement Society, during the summer last, past, and when covered with green grass with the fountain in the center, will be a handsome addition to that portion of the village. The contract has been given to Mr. George Hobbs, of the firm of Smalley, Hobbs and Hunter, of South Berwick. The proposed fountain shows the electric lights around its top, and it is now up to the town or citizens to furnish these lights. The Village Improvement Society will take any and all donations toward the lights.

Home-made bread and other home cooking to order at Carrol's, Jan 18, 1913.

Mr. Clifford Muchmore of North Kittery is very ill with double pneumonia.

Many from this town will attend the Canton Center installation, banquet, and entertainment at Odd Fellows hall, Portsmouth, this evening.

Edgar Baker of Olds avenue is reported ill.

Mr. Charles Heaney of Central street is said to be restricted to the house with tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bonick and daughter Ruth, who a few weeks ago went to Cuba to reside, recently arrived back in Maine, and at present are guests of relatives in Portland. They will probably return to Kittery in the near future.

Rev. and Mrs. Allison J. Hayes of Echo street on Monday evening entertained the members of Miss Eleanor Lovell's Sunday school class and a few other friends, about fourteen, being present. Games of various kinds and music made the time pass all too quickly, and it was time to leave for their homes before the company realized that the evening had just begun. Sherbert, fancy cookies, assorted cake and bon bon were served, and when departing the merry gathering of young ladies and gentlemen voted. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes royal entertainers.

DAY OF YOUNG OLD MEN

Hard Workers Far Past the Three Score and Ten

This is preeminently the age of young old men, it has been said by a student of modern England, and it is certainly wonderful as we look around to note how much of the most energetic work in the country is being accomplished by those who have already exceeded the Biblical span.

Lord Strathcona whose activity in business continues unabated, for hard mental exertion is as insatiable as of old kept his 92 birthday yesterday. Lord Veyna, though his 94 birthday fell last Sunday still follows the modern politics with all the zest of youth and is a redoubtable antagonist with his pen.

Dr. Atkinson, the master of Clare College, Cambridge, was 83 yesterday and is approaching the record of Dr. Routh, the famous president of Magdalen College, Oxford, who lived into his 100th year. And today Earl Nelson, the Nestor of the House of Lords keeps his 84th birthday.

If there is any slackness in this country it is to be found in the rising generation not in our old men. Earl Roberts puts our youth to shame by the splendid vigor and persistence of his services to the cause of national defense.

Lord Halsbury, for all his 86 years is one of the strongest forces in his party in his green old age; his ardor for combat has rather deepened than decreased. Our greatest figure in literature is Thomas Hardy, who at 72 can yet produce poetry that will live.

The contrast with the eighteenth century is certainly extraordinary. Then in the days of Pitt and Fox men were counted old at 40 and sank to senility at 50. Now they retain their health and strength and are young at ninety. This does not suggest any loss of vigor in the race.—London Daily Mail.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Boston and Maine railroad has received complaint of brakemen, placing torpedoes on bridges over highways, whereby horses have been frightened by explosions. Orders to the employees have been posted requiring better judgment in these matters.

Station Agent O'Neil, at Rochester, has been transferred to Salmon Falls.

The place of general agent at Saco, Maine, now held by William Sanborn, a former assistant superintendent of the Portland division has been posted for bids.

The New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. has averted a threatening union strike of 3000 freight clerks by granting that body an increase of fifteen cents a day, and two weeks vacation yearly, with pay. The company also conceded to thirty other demands of the clerks. Richard G. Stearns of Boston chairman of the general committee that has conferred with the railroad officials for the past month, will report to the various locals in Boston this week.

The increase means about $1.05 a week to most of the clerks. The concessions show that the clerks got about 80 per cent of their grievances adjusted, or that the company granted four fifths of the demands.

NAVAL DEFENSE COUNCIL BOUGHT

Washington.—The Navy League of the United States, through Perry Belmont and Col. Robert M. Thompson of its committee on legislation, has sent to every member of Congress a circular urging passage of the Hobson bill for the creation of a council of national defense, to consist of the President, the secretaries of state, war and navy, the chairman of the military and naval committees in Congress, the chief of the general staff, an officer of the navy and the presidents of the army and navy war college.

ROADS RUN BY GOVERNMENT

Byrnes Tells B. & M. Conductors Tendency Is in That Direction.

"It looks as if the time is coming when the government will run the railroads. It now regulates the income; the next step will be to regulate the working of the roads and to fix their schedules and time-cards. After that the logical step will be to fix wages and hours of labor for the men."

Vice-President Timothy E. Byrnes of the New Haven road to 300 Boston & Maine conductors in the old Northburg station yesterday afternoon.

"Railroad men should come to the point and demand fair play for the railroads," said Mr. Byrnes. "Railroad men can do more than any one else to correct the wrongful impressions that are current regarding their officials. Whenever a man wants to get into the legislature he begins by abusing the railroads. This has become so fashionable that the man who abuses loudest is the most popular."

"Even the newspapers have taken to abusing the railroads and it is unjust and unfair."

Plans Disapproved.

"Mr. Mellen has been striving for the betterment of the road for five years and every plan he suggested for improvements has been turned down by the public authorities."

Mr. Byrnes told the conductors that the cost of running railroads had increased to such an extent that it would now be necessary either to cut expenses or do more business. He said a ideal situation would be found when conductors and other employees took the same interest in the road that they took in their private affairs.

"We should have experience meetings where we can all sit down and talk and have a free interchange of opinions. The management of the Boston & Maine wants your help and cooperation. I don't mean your help when you are engaged in your work, but your help all the time when you are awake, and if you dream I wish I would like to have you dream the road."

"There are some things you can do without thinking of wages. I believe Mr. Mellen was not getting a cent of salary (and he doesn't get a cent of money from the Boston & Maine) he could work just as hard and earnestly as he does now."

Responsibility for Success.

"Let every man here feel that the responsibility for the success of the road rests on his shoulders as much as on the shoulders of the president of the road. I would rather have the affection and confidence of the employees of the Boston & Maine, as Mr. Tuttle had, than to have all the millions of the Standard Oil Company."

"I think a man who works for a railroad, however humble his position, if he does the best he can with such ability as he has, if he brings up his family properly in the fear of God, if he has the respect and confidence of his neighbors, whether he is working with a shovel, firing a locomotive, or holding the throttle, he is a success whether he earns a thousand or ten thousand dollars."

"We need the humanizing of the railroad problems, and with such a spirit this road is bound to be a success."

HEART STILL YOUNG.

Scott Pays Tribute to Veteran Printer of This City.

The January number of the Typographical Journal publishes an excellent snapshot picture of George Washington Watkins, the veteran printer and Scott, the New York correspondent of the Journal, comments as follows:

"Herewith in likeness of George Washington Watkins, late of the New York Times proofroom and the Great White Way, now of Portsmouth, N. H., and the simple life. His companion, Bill Goat, has never read proof on anything, and so is not so entirely void of morals. It Goat is of the genius supra, and is found chiefly on hillside and back beer advertisements. Naturalists have never been able to classify the 'Bumbo' species, but George W. is the only one of its kind in captivity and he can also be found where the back beer sign is conspicuous. George W. is known to his friends as 'Bumbo,' a sobriquet the origin of which is lost in the dim shadows of antiquity. He was discovered by the late Horace Greeley in New York some fifty ago, and is said to have read at one time an entire page of Greeley manuscript without an error; whereupon he retired upon his laurels—that being considered glory sufficient for one mortal. He later held a frame on the Sun, but left during the collapse of that orb in the nineties, going to the Journal, thence to the Times, where he remained until he retired three years ago."

"The camera men have caught him in a summer camp in New England, and his many friends will be glad to see him looking so well. That his three score and ten years weigh as lightly upon him will be the source of much satisfaction to all who know him."

"Bumbo" has grown old in body, but his heart is still young. Age has not brought pessimism in its wake, and the sincerity of false friends has not embittered his soul. A lover of good books, he has read widely and well. An admirer of fair women, he has indulged in their smiles, if not wisely at least continuously; fond of liquid soporifics and joy-parlor symposiums, he has been a joy to all who have had the pleasure of his company. Now on the shady side of life, he finds women his fascination, Cabinet Rye his temptation, rheumatism his damnation, and bull mousers the bane of his existence.

"Dear old 'Bumbo'! If not a thing of beauty, at least a joy forever! Long may he wave."

A Moral for Local Merchants.

An exchange tells the story of a boy who was sent to market with a sack full of rabbits, lingering around town all day and coming back without selling them. When asked by his mother why he had not sold the rabbits, he said no one asked him what was in the sack. How many of our merchants are like this little boy? They have plenty of goods for sale but fail to tell the people what is in the sack. If you expect to sell goods in this day and age, you must open your sack and keep shouting the merits of your stock in

TO HEAR CASES PUBLICLY

Washington, Jan. 13.—Senator Nelson's bill to require United States courts to take all evidence in anti-trust cases in public passed the Senate today.

It was introduced because of a recent decision of judges of the United States Court in Massachusetts to hear privately the Government case against the United Shoe Machinery Company. It will now be pressed for passage in the House, and its sponsors hope to have it become law in time to force a public trial in the Shoe Machinery Company case.

Attorney H. K. Torrey and wife attended the reception to Governor Pellet at Rochester on Friday last.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

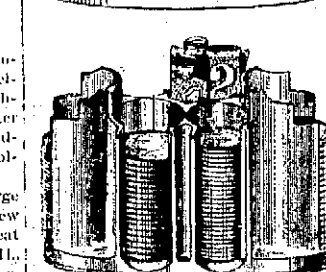

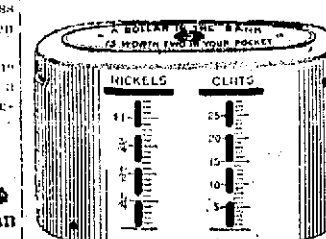

Somewhere there exists a vast amount of skepticism as to the possibility of curing consumption. We think none but facts, and are sincere in what we assert. If we were afflicted with Tuberculosis, we should do precisely what we ask others to do—take Eckman's Alternative promptly and faithfully. The reason we should do this and warrant we have for asking all Consumptives to take it, is that we have the reports of many recoveries, one of which follows:

"2411 Susquehanna Ave., Lida, Pa. 'Gentlemen: I was two years ago afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, the number totaled nearly one hundred. Our family physician advised another course, as to remain would probably be fatal. However, I remained, and in February of 1902, I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I learned of and started taking Eckman's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. After that time I have had two slight attacks of pneumonia and I have resorted to no other medicine to effect a cure."

"I am at present in excellent health and feel that as long as I can obtain Eckman's Alternative, I have no fear of Consumption. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."

(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ.
Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

JUDGE ARCHBALD DECLARED GUILTY

Senate Find By Overwhelming Vote That He Was Guilty of Influence of the Railroad.

Washington, Jan. 13.—A verdict of guilty was voted by the Senate on the first count impeachment charge against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the Commerce Court, that he had wrongfully influenced the Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad officials to grant him an option on the Katydell estate dump. Conviction on the other 12 charges is not necessary to remove Judge Archbald from the bench.

Judge Archbald's attorneys and the managers for the House entered the chamber as the impeachment Court convened, but Judge Archbald was not with them.

Judge Archbald was found guilty upon the first count.

The vote on the first count was 48 against Judge Archbald and five in his favor. The Senate then proceeded to vote on the other 12 articles of the impeachment, although the conviction upon the first is sufficient to remove the judge from the bench.

Not guilty was the verdict on the second article of impeachment, which charged Judge Archbald with having attempted to secure a fee by setting a case between the Marlon Coal company and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad. The vote was 11 to 25 in the judge's favor.

On the third charge the Senate found Judge Archbald guilty. This charge embodied undue influence on the Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad officials in a coal dump deal. Voting began at once on the fourth article.

Vote Taken Upon Every Charge
Senator Reed proposed that the question of Judge Archbald's guilt should be submitted in this form: "Senators, how say you: is the respondent, Robert W. Archbald, guilty or not guilty of the charge contained in this article?"

Several Senators Excused
The order adopted by the Senate provided that every Senator should be in his place as his name was called and answer "guilty" or "not guilty" from the bench.

Before the first article of impeachment was read, Senator Kern of Indiana, Senator Dillingham of Vermont and Senator Bradley of Kenucky asked to be excused from voting, because they had not been present throughout the trial.

Detailed Vote on First Charge
The vote was as follows on the first charge:

For Conviction—Ashurst, Bankhead, Borah, Bourne, Brandegee, Bristow, Brown, Bryan, Burton, Chamberlain, Chapp, Clark of Wyoming, Clarke of Arkansas, Crane, Crawford, Culberson, Cullum, Cummins, Curtis, Dixon, Doan, Fletcher, Foster, Gallinger, Gore, Granger, Hitchcock, Johnson of Maine, Jones, Kenyon, La Follette, Lippitt, Lodge, McCumber, McLean, Martin, McPherson, Myers, Nelson, Newlands, Otis, Owen, Page, Perkins, Pomeroy, Pomeroy, Reed, Richardson, Root, Sanders, Shively, Simmons, Smith of Arizona, Smoot, Stephens, Stone, Sutherland, Swanson, Thurston, Tillman, Townsend, Warren, Wetmore, Williams, Works.

Against conviction: Burnham, Callahan, Oliver, Paynter and Penrose.

Absent or not voting: Bacon, Bradley, Briggs, Chilton, Dillingham, Full, Gammie, Gardner, Gammie, Hiss, Keck, Ask, Jackson, Johnson of Alabama, Johnston of Texas, Kern, Lea, Massey, Overman, Percy Smith of South Carolina, Smith of Michigan and Watson.

By a special order made Saturday the voting on the first of the 13 articles of impeachment began shortly after 1 p. m. and a vote followed upon every one of the other articles. Conviction required a two-thirds vote upon any one of the 13 counts against the judge. In case any of them should be sustained, the Senate had determined to go through the entire list of charges and vote upon every one, so that the question of guilt upon any one of the charges might not be left undecided.

The penalty of conviction, unless modified by subsequent action by the Senate, is immediate removal from office and a prohibition against ever holding another position of public honor or trust.

CLAIM INDICTMENTS VOID AND NULLIFIED

New York, Jan. 13.—Counsel for President Mellon of the New Haven railroad filed a plea in abatement in the United States District Court today, asserting that the recent indictments against Mr. Mellon, President Chamberlain and Alfred Smithers, chairman of the Grand Trunk directors, were "void, vitiated and nullified" because one of the grand jurors, Albert A. Stephens, was a resident of Jersey City.

Argument on the plea will be heard Friday. Mr. Mellon did not appear. The plea of abatement halts all proceedings, until the validity of the indictment is established. The Government will either answer the charge of Stephens non-residence or file a demurrer. In either case it will take weeks, perhaps months, to decide the matter, and it may be necessary to go before a jury.

Counsel said that in behalf of his client he would carry the fight to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary.

This plea, as filed today, alleged that prior Stephens, "was and has been or some time" a resident of Jersey City, though he formerly lived in New York. The indictments in question were returned by the Federal grand jury at New York, and, according to counsel, under the law all the jurors must be residents of this state.

Mellon, Chamberlain and Smithers were indicted for alleged violation of the criminal clause of the Sherman law. Mellon and Chamberlain entered pleas of not guilty and had until today to change these pleas.

The Federal Grand Jury which has been investigating the transportation situation in New England resumed its inquiry today. It is the same body which returned the indictments, and, notwithstanding the new developments, Mr. Stephens continued as a member of the jury.

One of the witnesses was H. C. Nickerson, general manager of the New England Steamship Company, which is controlled by the New Haven.

CRITICS ALL PRAISE "THE SPRING MAID"

Nothing but praise has been showered on the Vesper opera "The Spring Maid" from the moment its rollicking humor and melodies took New York by storm up to the present time. For once there seems to be a unanimous vote that there is an opera suited for a public's pleasure which is clean throughout, though invested with a quaint naughtiness from the German original and overflowing with waltzes of long lost flavor, two steps and soldierly marches that set one's toes a tapping.

Of this work Allan Dale said in the New York American, "The whole thing is exceedingly pretty. There is not a stagnant moment in the music. It is imaginative and graceful. One waltz has the Merry Widow atrociously beaten to a frazzle. I refer to 'How I Love a Pretty Face.' For once last night I found myself with the encore friends, whom I despise to the very core. I wanted it all over again, and hadn't I been so dreadfully self-conscious and diffident, I should have joined in the racket rather than not. The encore. It really is a most gorgeous waltz. One of those right down regular runners that make you think of pretty girls with slim waists. I can't believe that I shall ever loath that waltz."

Verba and Luescher will send this charming opera to this city tonight when it plays at the Portsmouth Theatre with a record of two successful seasons in New York, and a coast to coast tour in which it scored heavily wherever it appeared.

ALARMED BY COCAINE IN ARMY

Brigadier General Clarence E. Edwards, in command of Fort D. A. Russell, in Wyoming, has made what he describes as a startling discovery of a new condition which should cause considerable apprehension among those who have charge of the health and morals of the enlisted force of the army. He says there is an alarmingly prevalent habit of cocaine habit among soldiers, and that it is interfering with the recommendation of one to another soldier.

General Edwards found that so many enlisted men were using cocaine in beer, with harmful effects to the discipline of the post, that he instituted an investigation. Much mystery surrounded the source of this material, but he finally discovered that it

ESSEX TROOPS TO ESCORT WILSON

Washington, Jan. 13.—Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, U. S. A., chief marshal of the inauguration day parade, has received word from President-elect Wilson that the latter has determined upon the Essex Troop of New Jersey Cavalry as his personal escort on March 4.

The parade managers received Gov. Wilson's decision with acclamation, because they have been besieged with requests for the honor from various military and semimilitary organizations. Applications for favorable places in the line of the parade are beginning to pour in on the committee, and before the end of the week Gen. Wood expects to have a definite idea of the extent and characters of the coming pageant.

Marshals for the naval contingent and the veterans' organizations probably will be named this week. The extent of the naval representation in the parade will not be settled until the return of the Atlantic Fleet, now in Cuban waters, to Hampton Roads.

was being sent in envelopes by mail from Denver. He was accordingly asked the postal authorities to make some effort to stop this traffic through the mails. He has also appealed to the municipal authorities in Denver and in Cheyenne, which is in the neighborhood of the fort, for relief. General Edwards has also sought to impress on the military authorities in Washington the necessity of putting a stop to this habit. He believes that much could be done in the desired direction by the re-establishment of the army canteen.

Mrs. Ann Davis

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Davis was held from Christ church today at 2 p. m. Rev. C. L. V. Brine officiating. Interment was in South Cemetery in charge of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

Portsmouth Loses the State Meet of Teachers' Association.

At the last meeting of the executive committee of the New Hampshire State Teachers' Association held at Manchester, there was a discussion about the advisability of holding the next meeting of the association in this city, but it finally went to Concord for October 20, 1913. Portsmouth has for several years attempted to get the association to hold the annual meeting here and though Manchester or Concord usually get it the fight to get the school teachers to convene here has not yet been given up by the members of the association from Portsmouth.

The members of the executive committee present were: Superintendent J. B. Blaisdell, Jamaica, president; Superintendent W. H. Clayton of Franklin, vice president; Principal J. W. Hobbs of Portsmouth, Principal F. W. Lakeman of Nashua; Principal John Gault of the Webster street school, treasurer; Miss Helen Brock, of Manchester, secretary.
